It all started in 1991 with the first New Horizons concert band in Rochester, New York. Since then founder Roy Ernst’s idea of involving seniors in music has grown into an international organization of 187 groups, and growing, mostly in North America. In recent years, the New Horizons concept has expanded to Iceland, Ireland, and Australia, and now includes choruses, orchestras, swing, jazz, and Dixieland bands, small ensembles, and even bluegrass.

Our groups are performing in large and small concert halls, outdoor amphitheaters, shopping malls, town squares and parks, and in schools and nursing and retirement homes. We’ve been featured on NPR and PBS, as well as in countless local and regional newspapers and on local TV and radio. We show up all over the world on YouTube and Facebook, and we “toot our own horns” on the NHIMA Web site and the groups’ individual Web sites.

Many studies have been done, and more are in progress, about the health and social benefits of organizations like ours, and for the first time ever, our Calendar is overflowing.

Now more honors are coming. Many groups have performed at their states’ music educators conferences. Last year, the Rochester, New York, clarinet choir performed for the International Clarinet Association’s annual conference in Austin, Texas. [See Fall 2010 issue of NHN]. This year 100 musicians from bands in the U.S. and Canada gathered in Cincinnati, Ohio, for a joint conference of the Ohio Music Education Association and National Association for Music Education; and the Prime Time Band from Santa Barbara, California, has been invited to participate in the Sousa Festival in Washington, DC. [See reports on p. 6.]

Add regional tours and a challenge coin [see p. 5] to the mix, and we do have reason to be proud—and grateful. We luv ya, Roy.

—Shirley Michaels, Editor (ret.)
We were honored to have one of the first 20th Anniversary Tours here in the Southwest Region. The event was hosted jointly by two local New Horizons Bands: the Desert Foothills NHB in Phoenix (Ron Phillips, director) and the Sonic Seniors NHB in Mesa (Michele Kalo, director). It was a particularly exciting event for all of us, since we were able to get these two bands together for the very first time. In addition, we were delighted to have visitors, including Roy and Pat Ernst, Jan Rawley from Iowa City, and Jim Archer from Olympia, Washington.

We held the anniversary at the rehearsal space for the DFNHB, which is the Crosswinds Presbyterian Church in Phoenix. The church’s pastor, Michael Hartwell, plays trumpet in the DFNHB.

The festivities began with a jazz band rehearsal in the morning, with more than 30 musicians playing several of our favorite swing tunes under the direction of Richard Saunders (above left). About 60 of us met for a delicious lunch at a local eatery where we had a large room all to ourselves. The sound was deafening as we renewed old acquaintances and met new friends.

The afternoon was spent rehearsing with a band of 70 musicians, under the direction of Ron Phillips, Michele Kalo, and Roy Ernst. It was truly amazing how great we sounded with the combined bands and our visitors. The whole was truly greater than the sum of its parts!

Roy Ernst, New Horizons founder, regaled us with fascinating details about the history of the New Horizons movement. During the afternoon break, we all enjoyed the anniversary cake decorated with the New Horizons logo (photo on p. 1). Needless to say, a good time was had by all, and our two bands vowed that we will get together often in the future.

One of the most exciting parts of our tour was the TV and Internet coverage we had for the event. A local TV station (ABC Channel 15) had a spot on their evening news about New Horizons and our celebration. It can be viewed on newhorizonsmusic.org under News/Archives. In addition, Banddirector.com spent the entire day with us and streamed all of our events live on the Internet. Several friends reported that they enjoyed watching our celebration.

Here’s hoping that all of the musicians who go on 20th Anniversary Tours have as much fun as we did here in the “Valley of the Sun.”

Desert Foothills NHB (Phoenix)
Sonic Seniors NHB (Mesa)
What was the inspiration that sparked the NHB concept?

In the 1980s, it looked to me like retirees didn’t have enough substantial activities. I started thinking that they would probably enjoy the things that kids in high school enjoy in their music programs—working with other people to prepare a musical performance; the challenge and accomplishment afforded by learning music; and having events to look forward to, like performances and trips. I wanted to start a music program for retirees, including people with no musical experience. A friend told me that he could arrange some grant money to help start it, and after some planning and announcements, we started in January of 1991.

Can you comment on your funniest moment[s] or most memorable, proudest, most rewarding?

I loved directing a group that had a high tolerance for mistakes. That really was a new approach, especially at the Eastman School of Music. Before one concert, I said, “Some of our musicians tonight have only been playing a few months, and some will be playing solos tonight. I don’t know when, but I’m sure we will hear some.” When our concerts were over in less than an hour (that’s all we could manage), I said “Remember that we’re the band that knows when to stop.” I also said that “When you hear the Rochester Philharmonic or other Eastman groups, you get used to constant perfection, and it can dull your attention. You won’t need to worry about that tonight. Our group has a very spontaneous sound.” Once I stopped in a rehearsal and said “That was my fault, I made a conducting mistake.” Someone said “It’s okay, no one was watching.”

How has NHB made a difference in your life?

New Horizons is a very big part of my life. Many of my best friends are people I met through New Horizons, and I treasure my time with them. You can’t imagine how I feel when I visit a big, thriving group and I can remember sitting around a table with people to talk about the possibility of starting a New Horizons group.

What is your vision for the future of the organization?

One of the best things was forming a board of directors so that we could tap into the experience and abilities of our membership. The board is doing a great job and I want to serve as advisor as long as I can. I’m always thinking about new things to do. It may be time for an international tour, maybe a river boat tour in Europe.

We brought six music teachers from other countries to the United States and Canada to visit New Horizons groups and I’m going to be aiming for some interaction with them.

Since there is so much research indicating that musical activities support good health, I would like to see if we can find an insurance company that will pay part of the cost of substantial music activities. It would work something like Silver Sneakers. In addition to being a win for musicians, it should also be a win for the insurance company because it would make people choose them and it should reduce their costs.

Do you have advice for new and experienced NHB musicians?

For new musicians, be patient and have fun. Every one of us at one time made very strange sounds on an instrument and worked hard to learn easy songs.

For experienced musicians, don’t get in a rut. Do something new with your music. Get involved in a new group, go to hear concerts with some New Horizons friends, or take up a new instrument—perhaps one that fills a gap in your group. That would not mean that you need to give up the instrument you are already playing.

Prime Time Band goes to Washington

The Prime Time Band of Santa Barbara is excited about being invited to participate in the upcoming National Community Concert Band Sousa Festival June 24-27, 2011, in Washington, D.C., and Alexandria, Virginia.

The repertoire will emphasize the life and influence of John Philip Sousa on the American band movement. We are the only West Coast band among six adult community bands chosen for this festival. About 50 members of our band plan to make the trip.

Participating bands will perform individually in the Rachel M. Schlesinger Concert Hall and Arts Concert Hall and Arts Center at Northern Virginia Community College. Jeffrey Peterson, director of the Prime Time Band, will lead us in this performance.

All six bands will then join for an early afternoon massed band performance at the United States Air Force Memorial under the direction of Col. Arnold D. Gabriel.

Music selected for this program includes, among others, “Washington Post March,” “Bugler’s Holiday,” “1812 Overture,” “America the Beautiful,” and “Stars and Stripes Forever.”

Additional activities include a welcome dinner and an invitation to attend the official Marine Barracks evening parade, featuring the Marine Band Drum and Bugle Corps, Silent Drill Team, and Marine Barracks Troops, all in full dress uniforms.

A walking tour of various monuments is planned, as well as a visit to the historic Congressional Cemetery for a wreath-laying ceremony at the grave side of “The March King,” John Philip Sousa.

Music Celebrations International is sponsoring this festival.

North Central District band members play for music educators

Band members from the 10 North Central District states and Canada gathered in Cincinnati for a Jan. 27 concert for music educators to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of the New Horizons program.

Nearly 100 NHB musicians joined to play in the ballroom of the downtown Millennium Hotel for a joint conference of the Ohio Music Education Association and National Association for Music Education.

New Horizons founder Roy Ernst served as guest conductor. He shared conducting chores with Linda Hartley, director of the University of Dayton New Horizons Band; Laura Joss, director of the Baldwin-Wallace College NHB; and David Shaffer, longtime Miami University Marching Band director who composed two of the numbers—“Twilight” and “Takeoff!”—performed during the concert.

Hartley and Joss cohosted the concert along with the New Horizons Band of Cincinnati, which provided about 30 of the participating musicians (photo below).

Visiting NHB members were invited to participate in other conference activities and to join Cincinnati band members on a riverboat dinner cruise during their stay in Ohio.

The NHB of Cincinnati, which celebrated its 10th anniversary in 2010, is conducted by Lee Suman and sponsored by Buddy Roger’s Music.

Join or Renew

Why should YOU join NHIMA? Because you will

* earn discounts for music camp enrollments;
* support our informative Web site;
* receive spring and fall newsletters and a membership directory;
* help maintain a centralized organization for existing and new groups; and most importantly,
* keep the New Horizons vision alive for future generations.

For information about becoming a new member or to renew your current membership, contact Eve McGrory Membership Coordinator evemcgrory@yahoo.com

Please note: There appears to be some question as to whether group membership in NHIMA qualifies an individual in such a group for a discount at band camps. The policy is that, while NHIMA welcomes group membership, which has its own set of benefits, only individual membership in NHIMA qualifies one for a discount in the registration fee for a band camp.

The Northwoods Jazz Camp

The Northwoods Jazz Camp is a camp for adults who want to advance in their knowledge of and ability to play jazz music or just have a good time playing and hanging out with accomplished professional jazz musicians.

The camp takes place at Holiday Acres Resort, Rhinelander, Wisconsin, May 11-14, 2011. It is run by professional jazz musicians Kim Richmond (saxophones/woodwinds) from Los Angeles and Clay Jenkins (trumpet), who is on the faculty of Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York.

During the day, classes are held in improvisation, combo playing, and instrumental masterclass, as well as rehearsals. After classes, around 3 p.m., there’s plenty of time to enjoy the amenities of the resort and surrounding area: boating, swimming, golf, tennis, volleyball, hiking. Some students take private lessons during this time or just jam among themselves.

Each night there is a concert by the faculty group on the dining room stage, with students sitting in when they feel they are ready. The last night, the Northwoods Big Band, made up of students and faculty combined, plays a set, as do the student combos. After the evening concerts, there is often spirited hanging out at the bar and the telling of road stories.

Northwoods Jazz Camp
The University of South Carolina School of Music hosted the 2010 Society for Composers International (SCI) Conference, Nov. 11-14, 2010. Two hundred composers and performers came to participate in 14 concerts of over 100 works of new music and six academic presentations and demonstrations.

On Nov. 13, the Congaree New Horizons Band, under the direction of Dr. Jeremy Lane, performed four original pieces written by young composers attending the conference. The compositions were “The Waterfalls of Iceland” by J. Rich Freese, “Winner’s Homecoming” by Richard A. Williamson, and “American March” and “Triumphant Overture” by Brandon Hendrix.

“The band played a beautiful concert,” said Dr. Lane, “and the composers were happy with the renditions of their music. It was a great experience to premiere these works and help promote the activities of the New Horizon bands to a recital hall filled with a couple hundred composers. Having Roy Ernst sit in and play his flute during the concert was a special treat.”

The Congaree New Horizons Band will celebrate five years of music-making in 2011, with 75 members and growing! We have come a long way and are looking forward to new and challenging opportunities. As a founding member of the group, I am amazed at where we started and look forward to expanding our “Horizons.”

The New Horizons Band of Western New York has now reached a membership of 60. We are in our sixth year under the direction of Kate Levy and operate under the Musical Journeys Program, a community outreach project offered by the Fredonia School of Music.

We are the New Horizons Band; We like to play in tune. We practice at Ray’s MidBell, each Thursday afternoon. We boogie, march, and play some jazz, and if we’re “In the Mood,” we’ll watch as we’re directed, by our conductor Lou.

An exciting new event

The New Horizons Band of Western New York has now reached a membership of 60. We are in our sixth year under the direction of Kate Levy and operate under the Musical Journeys Program, a community outreach project offered by the Fredonia School of Music.

The first hour of our rehearsal is for ensembles, sectionals, or individual instruction as needed. We also started a jazz band, a new experience in swing for some of us. For the second hour, everyone comes together for full band rehearsal.

This format has served us well, allowing the nurturing of several ensembles, including a “brasstet” with six players, a “saxtet” with five saxes, a woodwind quintet, and various others for individual performances in smaller venues.

Our most exciting event will be in September when we will host two of the 20th Anniversary Tours on the last two Fridays of September.

When the idea was first presented, the last weekend in September wasn’t included, but with our being almost at the doorstep of Chautauqua, a tour stop on the Friday before the camp was a natural fit. So we are looking forward to having a full house, making new friends, and greeting old (oops, wrong word) ones.

Bob Johnson, 91
The Villages NHB

Bob Johnson celebrated his 91st birthday on Jan. 31, 2011, becoming the most experienced member of The Villages New Horizons Concert Band.

Bob was introduced to music when his father and brother took him to community band rehearsals in Wakefield, Nebraska. When he was in fifth grade, he began playing mellophone and trumpet. Later, in Sioux Falls, he played French horn in the high school band.

Bob played in both the army and air force bands. While stationed in England, he was transferred to General Patton’s band and later became involved in the Battle of the Bulge. He then entered army intelligence in eastern Europe and eventually worked with Russian intelligence.

Upon returning to civilian life, Bob became CEO of a heavy equipment company and later owned his own hardware store. He and his wife, Ann, moved to The Villages from Arizona three years ago, after having been fulltime RVers for nine years.

He began playing trumpet in the band but changed to baritone. His other interests include computers and golf. Bob’s love for The Villages New Horizons Concert Band is returned by all its members.

Jan McKenzie, 90
Olympia New Horizons Band

“They can’t bury me if they can’t catch me.”

That’s one of Jan McKenzie’s favorite mottos. McKenzie, one of our founding members, celebrated her 90th birthday in great style at a Wednesday morning rehearsal in early January.

Born in Great Falls, Montana, on January 5, 1921, Jan lived in Utah, Texas, and Oklahoma as a young child. In 1943, she was one of the first women earning a forestry degree from the University of Minnesota. She and Malcom McKenzie (“Mac”) were married in 1945, and they raised three daughters. She now has eight grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren.

As a botanist, Jan worked in State Parks and Forestry and taught at St Martin’s College (now University) in Lacey. She hikes weekly with a women’s hiking club in Olympia and has made 239 ascents to Washington mountains. She shares her love of plants with fellow hikers. Jan became a small aircraft pilot, spent 30 years as a waterfront director at a Girl Scout camp, and still teaches private French lessons.

Jan played the piano and was her church organist for 23 years. In high school she was handed a string bass which she played through high school and college. But she really wanted to play an instrument she could take into the woods with her so she learned to play flute when she was 60 years old. When she retired from the organist position, Jan found the New Horizons Band and has been an active member for 12 years. She is an excellent spinner, knitter, and tatter, volunteers many hours at her church and loves to dance.
